This month is Native American Heritage Month. We acknowledge that we are on the traditional land of the Ramaytush Ohlone people. We are sharing this territory acknowledgement to remind our community of our past and to acknowledge the structural oppression enacted upon marginalized groups in our country, in the hope that we will make an intentional effort to do our part to avoid repeating these harms and patterns. We thank the original people of this land, and their role in shaping these places we love. We honor the connection of this and future generations to this land. For more info about Native American Heritage Month, please read the I.D.E.A.S. SLIDES.
